

Watertown, Mass.,
Oct. 29, 1924.

Haraste Sweetheart:

I wonder where you
are now.

I did not see you get ready to leave this evening or should of joined you. However saw you going out the door. It then was to late.

Had a call from Pete this evening. Have dated up for next Wednesday evening. Will that be payroll all day tomorrow so will not be able to see the after effects. Hi.

Am just about frozen
and the light hurting my eye. As there is no heat on and I do not know where you are guess
that I will have to freeze.
Tough isn't it.

Hope that you will be all set for the dance tomorrow night. It will be the first one we have been to for years and years. Or so it seems to me.
Will see you at the office and arrange for our meeting a convenient evening for you Storey? He will come for the set and take it to his home to try out. The fellow I was supposed to see tonight called up and could not come.

You have been so quiet the past few days in the office. Too much work there?
 Am some busy myself.

I hope that this note will not be too much of a shock. I intend it for a surprise as you have about come to the conclusion that I have forgotten how to write. Am I right? Think that I will be over to the Wonder how you and the costume agree. Did you get it? I am looking forward to a good time dancing

with you.

I'm going to make this a little shorter than usual as I am shivering.
But doesn't you care
dearest Girl I Love You more and more all the time. I am sincere when I say that and want to try and be worthy of your love.
The love of a good girl is the most precious thing in the world and I want to win and hold yours. Love + kisses Precious! Jack.
